School of Nursing

200 Years
of Independence
Progress in Nursing
RP
'76

We the class of 1976 dedicate our annual to those students who have come and have not made it. We must give credit to everyone who has put forth effort and due to circumstances have had to leave.

Over the years many friends have been made and many tears have been shed. And these will never be forgotten. In our day to day living, memories of friends still linger on.

CLASS HISTORY

On September 15, 1975 twenty-four eager girls arrived at Bessie B. Anderson School of Nursing, ready to try their luck at nursing. The year held, in store, many happy times and many sad times.

The first few months was an initiation period. The teachers were getting use to the students and the students were adjusting to the workload. Also, this time was one of fun, pranks, and waterfights.

November was a busy month with many projects being started. A yard sale and a turkey and ham raffle started the class off financially. Then, before Thanksgiving, the class made turkeys from pine cones and presented them to the residents of two nursing homes in Accomac County. Everyone was making handcrafts for the upcoming bazaar.

On December 5, we had a bazaar that was very successful. A lot of hard work and talent contributed to the fact that it went well. Later on in the month, the teachers gave the students a party on Christmas Eve. Gifts were exchanged and the students presented the teachers a golden bell engraved with Class of 1975-76. (much to the student's regret)

In January of 1976, we were given a late New Years present - our uniforms of which the glory soon wore off.

Soon after, we started a new money making scheme - an afghan raffle. Again, this project was successful and the students were glad, since it was the last raffle.

On April 27, we took a trip to Fishersville for clinical experience and excitement. We toured the Woodrow Wilson Rehabilitation Center which was very educational. Then we went to Charlottesville to the University of Virginia's Children's Rehabilitation Center and this turned out to be very interesting, considering it was unplanned. We spent the night outside of Richmond and everyone relaxed for the evening. Some bowled, some visited relatives, and some slept. The next day was filled with hustle and bustle. In the morning we went to the Capitol and saw Governor Godwin. Then we shopped in downtown Richmond and headed back home. But before we got home, we made one more stop. This time we went to a mall and by this time, our legs were dragging. Home was a welcome sight.

Last Will and Testament

I, Sally Tankard, leave my seat on the toilet to the girl with the weakest bladder.

I, Earline Collins, leave my quietness to the loud mouth of next year's class.

I, Hope Georgiana, leave my shaving cream, water balloons, and silly string to whoever wants them.

I, Cindy Thurman. leave the bugs and spiders to whoever gets room #6.

I, Deborah Ward, leave some of my excessive natural blusher to the palest person in next year's class.

I, Patty Parks, leave my ability to sleep during filmstrips, movies, and lectures to the one who just can't get enough sleep.

I, Patsy Sears, leave the coldest room, #3, to those who like Alaska's weather.

I, Juanita Brown, leave my black, fine point pen, and my ability to write small to the student who can't afford to buy paper.

I, Beth Brickman, the runt of the bunch, leave my platform shoes to the next class munchkins.

I, Barb Daugherty, leave the flu and dirt under the beds to whoever gets room #4.

I, Ida Crumb, leave my ability to belch to next years student who suffers with gas.

I, Roseanne Parker, leave to the class of '76 - '77 my collection of old jokes and one liners to be used whenever necessary to provide a light moment when things get dull.

I, Evelyn Chandler, leave my seat to anyone who wants to put in a year of hard work.
